

The Prairie Light Review

Volume 32 | Number 1

Article 53

10-1-2010

Charlie

Wilda Morris
College of DuPage

Follow this and additional works at: <http://dc.cod.edu/plr>

Recommended Citation

Morris, Wilda (2011) "Charlie," The Prairie Light Review: Vol. 32: No. 1, Article 53.
Available at: <http://dc.cod.edu/plr/vol32/iss1/53>

This Selection is brought to you for free and open access by the College Publications at DigitalCommons@C.O.D.. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Prairie Light Review by an authorized administrator of DigitalCommons@C.O.D.. For more information, please contact koteles@cod.edu.

Charlie

Wilda Morris

Charlie wakens from a short nap and asks, Did I ever tell you about the time Winston Churchill came to our house for tea? And his wife, Winnie, too.
He was a big man, really big.
I still have the stub of his Cuban cigar packed away in a drawer somewhere.

Another day, as we put on our coats,
Charlie says, I can't run like I used to.
Wish you'd seen me in the Berlin Olympics.
When Jesse Owen won gold, I was on his heels.
Too bad someone stole my silver medal.

One weekend, Charlie's grandson hears him declare, Eleanor Roosevelt was a great friend of mine.
She invited me to Hyde Park
whenever Franklin vacationed with Lucy at Hot Springs.
Eleanor used to call me everyday on her cell phone.

What was she like?
his twelve-year-old grandson asks.
Formidable, he replies.
Much prettier in person than in pictures. I'm sorry I lost the snapshots taken when we hiked together on the Appalachian Trail.

As usual, I say nothing.